THE AUTHORSHIP OF THE PAULINE EPISTLES

BY MARY ELIZABETH JOHNSON

HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

- A large portion of the New Testament consists of the Pauline letters, which are nominally attributed to the apostle Paul
- Most scholars today believe it is extremely unlikely that Paul actually wrote all of the Pauline letters; it is more likely that his followers wrote some of them and attributed them to him following the practice of pseudepigraphy
- Pseudepigraphic works were not uncommon in the ancient world and were written as if they had been written by a famous historical character; the real author typically remained anonymous
- Scholars debate which of the Pauline letters were actually written by Paul himself and which are pseudepigraphic (meaning they were written by one of his followers using “Paul” as a pseudonym)

1 THESSALONIANS VS. 2 THESSALONIANS

- Paul definitely wrote 1 Thessalonians (c. 50-51 A.D.)
- If he also wrote 2 Thessalonians, it was probably soon after 1 Thessalonians
- Results show only superficial similarities between the most common words and phrases in both texts

COLOSSIANS VS. ROMANS

- If Paul wrote Colossians, he probably wrote it towards the end of his life
- Romans is the latest letter definitively written by Paul (ca. 57-58 A.D.)
- “Christ” and “god” are both high on the list in both letters as expected, but “faith” also appears highly on both (ranking sixth in both lists of single words and appearing in multiple highly ranked phrases as well)

Colossians

COLOSSIANS VS. EPHESIANS

- Ephesians and Colossians are both disputed, but Colossians is considered more likely to have been written by Paul than Ephesians
- Ephesians was likely written after Colossians
- In both letters “christ” is the most common word, “god” the second most common, and “lord” is in the top five; however this could be considered coincidental
- “Body” and “love” both appear in the top most common words of both documents and are not commonly found in many of the other epistles

Global Sounds

---

Ancient instruments have been recovered throughout the world. Some sit in museums, some have been reconstructed to produce sounds.

But where did they originate and what do they sound like?

EN(TWINE)D WITH ERGODIC RHETORIC

CALEB MILLIGAN
20 APRIL 2016

HYPERTEXTUALITY

- Hypertext fiction has been a prominent genre of electronic literature since Michael Joyce's Afternoon, a story published in 1990.
- Twine continues this tradition through an accessible open-source platform for telling interactive non-linear stories.
- I want to propose using Twine to author non-linear academic arguments.

TWINERY

- Twine is a hypertext story editor created by Chris Klimas in 2009.
- It has since become incredibly popular with indie game developers for its freedom of expression and use.
- As it requires no coding experience, I want to suggest Twine as an excellent beginner's program for digital humanities composition.

ACADEMY

- Interactive, non-linear storytelling as an academic pursuit is already proliferating.
- From 80 Days to Interactive Salem Witch Trials, entertainment to education, choose-your-own-adventure could be reconsidered choose-your-own-aesthetic-argument.

INTRICACY

- To create links, all one has to [[bracket]] words like so.
- Through minimal code-like language, one can change the color of their project, add images, embed videos, and more.
- Utilizing the visual metaphor of the blueprint, Twine stories appear as networked maps while you write them.

SPECIFICITY

- Below are some screenshots of what the Twine interface looks like:

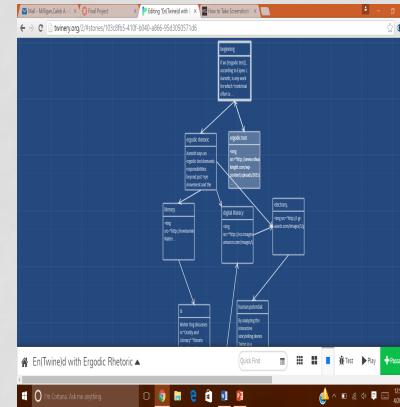

A screenshot of the Twine interface showing the Stylesheet tab. The window title is "Editing Ergodic Rhetoric". The content area contains CSS code:

body
background-color: #000000;

tw::passage
color: #00FFFF;

A screenshot of the Twine interface showing the ergodic text tab. The window title is "Editing ergodic text". The content area contains a block of text:

Ernest Hemingway's "A Clean, Well-Lighted Place" is a prime example of ergodic text. The story is told from the perspective of a waiter who is trying to understand the needs of his customers. The story is told in a simple, direct language, but the reader must work to follow the narrative. The story ends with the waiter's realization that he has failed to understand his customers' needs.

MASTERY

THE LOGICAL FLOW OF

PSALM 24

ADAPTED FROM:

"WHO IS THIS KING OF GLORY?" THE EARLY CHURCH'S CHRISTOLOGICAL INTERPRETATION OF PSALM 24:

A HISTORICAL-GRAMMATICAL AND CANONICAL ANALYSIS WITH AN EVALUATION

INTRODUCTION

1. Parallelism: linchpin of biblical poetry
2. Intensification through Parallelism:
  - Geographical Focusing
  - Topical Specification
  - Temporal Progression
  - Spacial Advancement
3. Follow both the structural & the thematic movement
4. Interpret within canonical context

VERSES 1-2:

1. Earth/land; that which fills/those who dwell; seas/rivers
  - From larger to smaller
2. Creation of world/creation of Eden
  - Similar to focusing in Genesis 1-2
  - Same language

- A. Yahweh made the world
- B. Yahweh owns its inhabitants
- C. Yahweh can judge its inhabitants
  - Psalms 96:10-13; 98:7-9

Yahweh's is the earth and that which fills it,
The land and those who dwell in it;
For upon the seas He founded it,
And upon the rivers He established it.

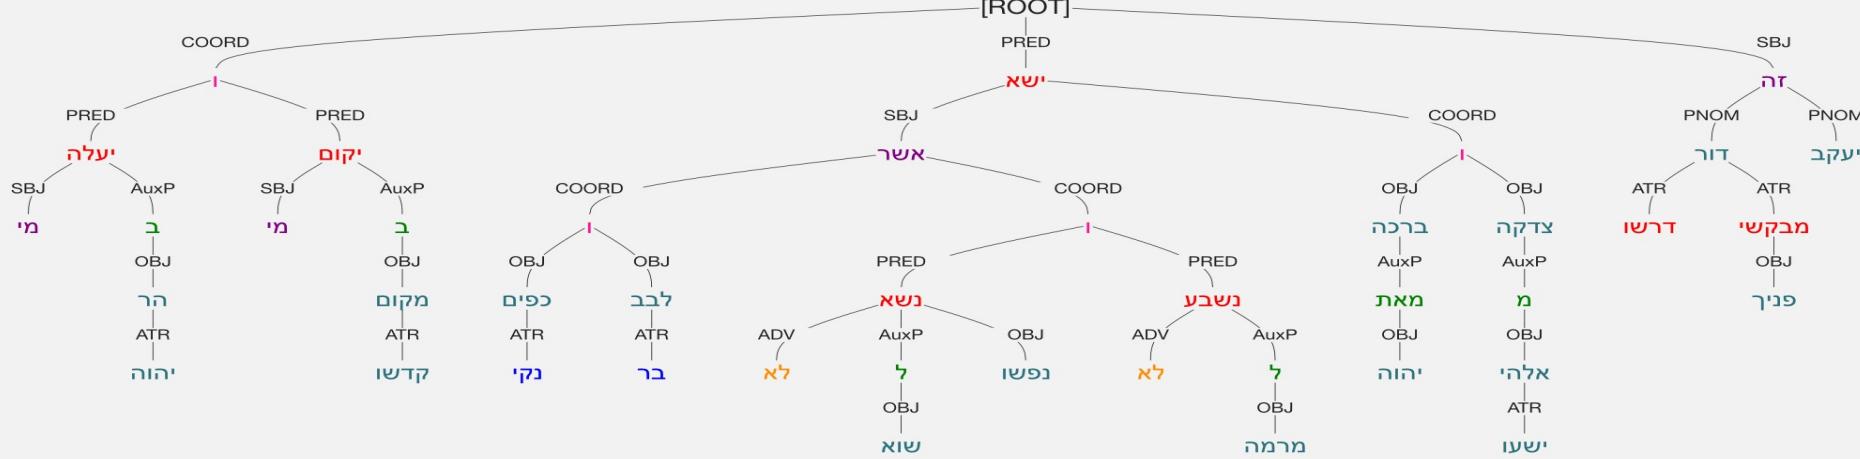

Who will ascend the mount of Yahweh,
 And who will stand up in His holy place?
 The one with clean hands,
 And the man with a pure heart,
 He who does not lift up his soul to vanity,
 And who does not make a false pledge:
 He will obtain blessing from Yahweh,
 And righteousness from the God of his salvation.
 This is the generation of those who seek Him,
 Those who seek Your face,
 Namely, Jacob.

VERSES 3-6:

1. Eden, Sinai, tabernacle, & temple
  - Terminology, structure, & function
2. Inward motion & specification

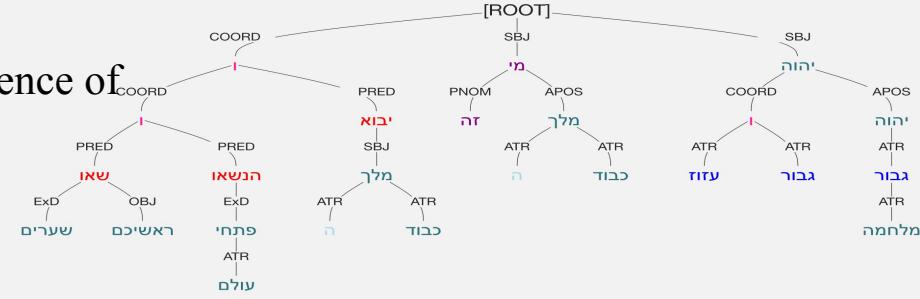

- A. Potential for to actualization of judgement
- Sinful man not permitted to enter
  - Man can't fulfill requirements

Raise, O gates, your heads!
 And be raised up, eternal doors!
 And the King of glory will enter!
 Who is this? The King of glory?
 Yahweh strong and heroic!
 Yahweh heroic in war!
 Raise, O gates, your heads!
 And arise, eternal doors!
 And the King of glory will enter!
 Who is He, this King of glory?
 Yahweh of armies!
 He is the King of glory!

VERSES 7-10

1. Individual in place of group
2. Manifold roles of individual
3. Yahweh as a man
4. Yahweh entering the presence of Yahweh

- A.Precedent Scene
- Suffering Servant
- B.Subsequent Scene
- Enthroned Lord

Why do the gentiles rage,
 And the peoples grumble in vain...
 Against Yahweh and against His Messiah?..
 Then He will speak to them in His anger,
 And terrify them in His wrath:
 "I have consecrated my King on Zion, my holy mount."
 I will relate the decree, Yahweh said to me:
 "You are my Son, today I have begotten you."

THANK YOU!
